Activated charcoal.	Forming proper armies.	Uniting humanity, understanding gender roles and making life work smoothly.
Hemodialysis.	Purging the mainstream media.	Outlining moral standards to aim.
Phlebotomies or bloodlettings (in the absence of hemodialysis).	Purging society correctly.	Teaching the true sex education.
Acetylcholinesterase reactivators.	Doing the vertical war as much as possible.	Deploying the already discovered technologies that will make life easier.
Avoiding polyunsaturated fatty acids.	Bringing peace and order (there will always be more war ahead).	Setting bounds loose to advance unrestrained.

HEALTH

Medicines in general don't be lacking

People got used to take certain medications that if were to lack suddenly, people could breakdown or die.

Activated charcoal

Would be necessary for preventing and stopping manic crisis caused by toxins in the gastrointestinal tract.

Also useful in some cases of acute poisoning, if taken within time.

Hemodialysis

The panacea of a lot of chronic illnesses. Used to be in charge of "nephrologists", now a lot of doctors must reinvent around it.

Prioritize the most in need. Don't let it be lacking.

Phlebotomies or bloodlettings

(In absence of hemodialysis). It is better to lose some blood, little by little, instead of having some poisons accumulating. Times and forms must be respected.

Acetylcholinesterase reactivators

Not only that many people may have irreversible acetylcholinesterase inhibitors stored in their fat for later, but in context of war, these have always been biological weapons. The antidotes will always be the reactivators.

Avoiding polyunsaturated fatty acids

These are the ones that got people fat in the first place. Strange oils are not to be used, but stay within the normal true olive oil, butter, coconut oil or what be fit for the body. Let's not repeat the mistakes of the past.

STRATEGY

Clear communication is essential

(People understanding the project). This would make the difference from the start. We are going with empathy, but not suffering those who take pleasure in doing evil, or wouldn't subject themselves to decency.

Mercy to our neighbor, as if we were dealing with ourselves. But execution to the psychopaths.

Forming proper armies

Military service is an obligation to man, has always been.

Securing provisions for the people is as important as fighting the enemies.

Purging the mainstream media

These have made the psychological warfare to the people, have conditioned their thinking and now is their time to pay.

Part of clear communication is that no lies be spread.

No innocent be paying, no psychopath be escaping.

A purge is to be done carefully.

Purging society correctly

The same as before. This is good against evil, that it never be forgotten.

No space for racism or stupid divisions.

Doing the vertical war as much as possible

Key.

"Smite the shepherd and the sheep shall be scattered."

Bringing peace and order

This is our main objective. It will be secured by means of intelligent alliances and self-sufficiency.

There will always be more war ahead.

EDUCATION

No one will enforce any religion, but it is fair that people be presented the Gospel of the Lord Jesus Christ

Since a Christian has done all of this, please, let us have a space for presenting the good news of salvation, made possible through the sacrifice of the Son of God in the cross. Thank you.

Uniting humanity, understanding gender roles and making life work smoothly

One of the biggest harms of the past were our divisions, all based upon the lack of knowledge. Understanding how things naturally work, convince for their sole power. We all want to be happy, just let nature, and why not? The Word of God teach us?

Outlining moral standards to aim

Aiming is enough. Anyone could fall, specially in the beginning. What we need to do is help ourselves.

We want at first to avoid any sexual immorality, leaving sex for marriage. Obviously discarding any pornography or masturbation.

With time, people will understand naturally the essence of the dress code. Just don't go to extremes. Common sense.

Teaching the true sex education

This one overlaps with what has been said before, sex for marriage. Marriage is a long-term relationship, as should be. Just as no one would want a daughter or a sister living a bad life, so one shouldn't be sullying the women of the neighbor.

Regarding sex, that it be had as much as the couple please, don't get mystic about it. And something very important, that the man be seriously considering practicing semen retention, it will always be the smart choice. That's how "contraceptives" are not needed, because they never were.

Deploying the already discovered technologies that will make life easier

As I wrote in the book, renewable energies were discovered since decades, but kept away from the people because of greed and evil.

Technology should be used to make life easier, cheaper, and more enjoyable.

Clean water should be accessible freely, construction costs should be economical, as well as pretty much anything. Energy sources should be eco-friendly, and by nature, free.

Let us not forget to avoid the technological breach that has been seen sadly in our past, making now reach our help to others, or us receiving it, as would be proper.

Food production must never get mingled with poisons.

Avoiding extremes should always be remembered. It was the bad use of technology what got us hooked first, not technology on its own.

Setting bounds loose to advance unrestrained

In the past, laws were dictated to prevent problems, fooling the naked eye, while ignoring the most important, the quality of the people.

Perverse people don't make case of laws. Noble people barely need them.

This should be the essence of regulations, just keeping good people over the face of the Earth.

Good gardening keeps this fallen world in a good shape.
